Are you a manager? Are you looking for deeper significance in your work? How about using your God-given skills and experience for an eternal purpose?

Wycliffe's goal is to see that God's Word is translated for people in the language they know and can understand best. Besides linguists, the need for managers is one of the most critical. Although the focus is on service overseas, Wycliffe also has openings for qualified managers here in Canada.

The Need

Managers fill a wide range of needs in each of the 70 countries where our personnel work. With more than 300 unfilled management positions globally, we need many more professionals ready to apply their skills in new situations. Management skills are needed in many areas.

What's Involved

Roles vary considerably, but may involve:

- Normal management functions (planning, organizing, coordinating, staffing and achieving accountability) within the context of an evangelical mission organization.
- Helping fellow missionaries and national partners effectively fulfil their responsibilities.
- Working in coordination with other administrators to facilitate the work of Bible translation.
- Training national partners in management.

The skills and qualities that make a good administrator in the secular world will make the same person an asset to the Bible translation team. Many situations call for imagination, ingenuity and initiative, as well as a deep sense of commitment to the Lord. The administrative or management skills the Lord has given you can be invested in taking His Word to hundreds of people groups around the world.

Qualifications & Training

While a degree in business administration would be helpful, equally valuable is management experience in either the business or not-for-profit sector. Wycliffe usually requires administrative candidates to attend its Management Development and Orientation Course, held in Dallas, Texas. This acquaints candidates with our organizational ethos, dynamics and management styles. Successful applicants will be required to raise financial support from interested friends, family and churches. Training and resources are provided for this.
