

Guess how many Bibles there are in your house?

There may be
one ... or there may be a dozen.

The Bible is important because it tells us all about God's love for us. You can understand the Bible because it is in English, the language you speak.

But how could you know about God's love
if no one you knew could read the Bible?

Many people of the world don't have a Bible
in the language they speak.

Why not? Because no one has ever gone to help them write the Bible in their own language.

This is a job that needs to be done, but who will do it?

The men and women of Wycliffe Bible translators go all over the world.

Some are translators. They work many years to learn a new language, help local people invent a way to write it and then write the Bible in that language. The people who speak that language can then learn all about God and His love for them.

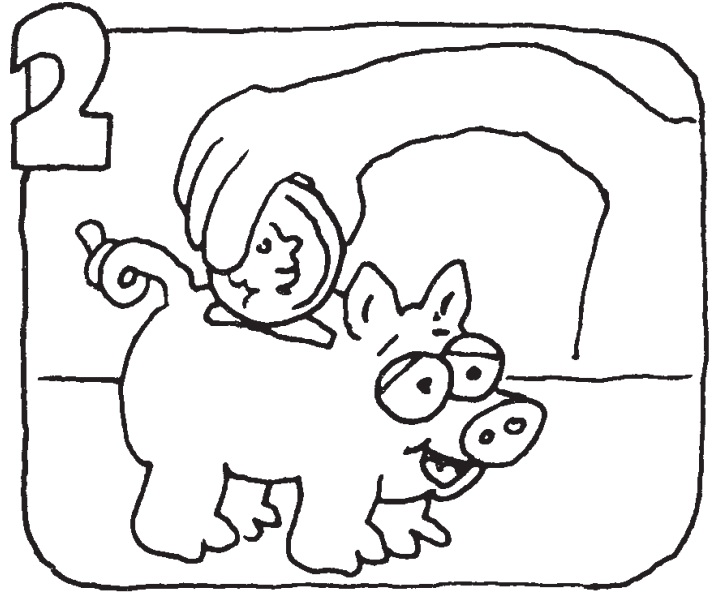

Some are support workers. They might fly airplanes, operate computers, or teach missionaries' children. They work hard so that translators can keep at the job of translating.

It's a big, important job. Maybe some day you can go.

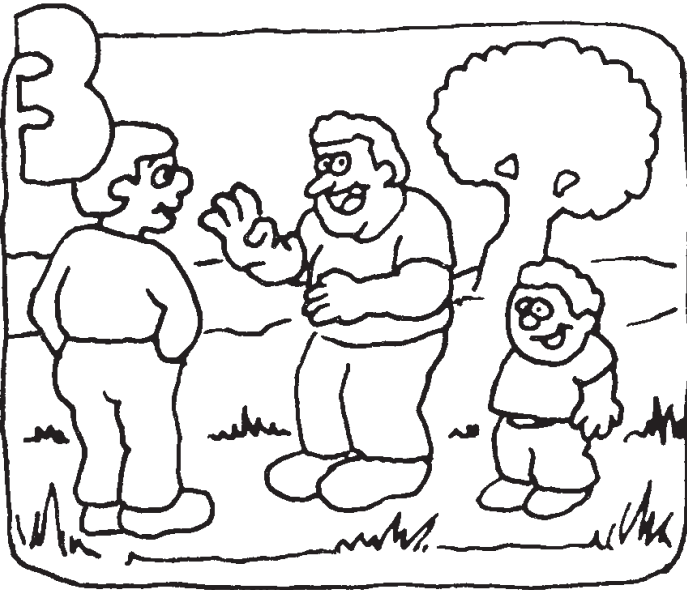

You can be part of the team right now!

By praying for the missionaries.

By sending money to pay for a missionary's needs.

By telling your friends about the work of Wycliffe.

A note to parents and teachers...

The excitement of faraway places and exotic customs. The romance of missionary aviation. The thrill of giving God's Word to people in their own language. Bible translation captures the attention and hearts of youngsters.

God has instructed the church to give His message to all tribes and nations. Bible translation is not just Wycliffe's task. It is the responsibility of every Christian. Wycliffe is a means to accomplish the job.

We have many other materials available for your use, including DVDs, books, magazines and brochures. Often Wycliffe speakers are available in your area as well. If you would like further information, please contact us at the address below or visit:
